Our approach to service delivery

Our services are guided by our values and informed by our Well Together Model. This approach means we work at 3 levels, with the individual, with their families and friends and with the community. Well Together recognises that developing skills, building confidence and strengthening relationships will help people to build their wellbeing and to live independently. The model provides an evidence-based approach to create individually tailored, effective support packages. Wellways assists individuals to develop the capacity to manage their own wellbeing, equip family and friends with information and skills, and engage community members in support networks.

Advocacy Services

We have a strong advocacy program, informed by the lived experience of people with mental health issues or disability, their families and friends. Members of Wellways play a vital role in developing our advocacy platform. We advocate for systemic change that will create better conditions and improved opportunities for people with a mental health issues, disabilities and their families.

All our services and advocacy programs:

- Support and create opportunities for building wellbeing
- Value cultural diversity
- Value peer participation and leadership (participant and carer)
- Are underpinned by evidence-based best practice

Position Summary

Refer to Attachment 1 for a reference to the overall Wellways organisation structure.

At Wellways, Consumer Directed Services (CDS) are services which are led and funded at the individual consumer level. In this context, the consumer is empowered to direct their supports in a way which meets their individual needs and aspirations. Initiatives such as; iCare programs (Lifetime Care and Support Scheme, Dust Disease and Workers Care), private fee-paying arrangements and other disability related initiatives, create the environment in which these services are delivered.

Support Workers are the front line of our Consumer Directed Services, providing consumers with the personalised, evidence-based supports that assist consumers to meet their individual needs and achieve their aspirations. Accordingly, Support Workers deliver a wide range of supports to support a participants Activities of Daily Living like personal care, continence management, feeding and mobilising. Support workers may also be required to support with Instrumental Activities of Daily Living such as companionship, transport, shopping, meal preparation, domestic assistance, medication management.

Drawing upon their professional training, skills and experience, Support Workers provide consumers with support in line with documented Care Plans, Risk Assessments and any applicable participant related Management Plans. Where required, Support Workers receive training tailored to supporting individual participants. Supports are provided within Wellways' Well Together model of care, a contemporary model of disability care that sees social inclusion interventions as equally important to counter the disabling impact of marginalisation, discrimination and loss of human rights. In addition, Support Workers are guided by Wellways' practice principles.

An essential element of the Support Worker role is that Support Workers actively contribute to the continuous improvement of care provided to participants. Support Workers document supports provided, identifying successes and challenges, report incidents and actions taken, contribute to, and participate in team-based care and participate in reflective practice.
