ABOUT MERIDIAN

For over 40 years, Meridian has been serving people living with and impacted by HIV, sex workers and LGBTQ+ Canberrans. We are a community-controlled, peer-led organisation that provides health, community and social support services. Our vision is a future where our communities thrive: healthy and well, free from stigma, empowered by peer connection and supported by a just and inclusive society.

POSITION OVERVIEW

Working as part of a multi-disciplinary mental health and wellbeing team, the Psychologist is responsible for providing high-quality, inclusive, trauma-informed, gender affirming, and person-centred care. Utilising a variety of evidence-based psychological and therapeutic approaches, the role provides clinical assessments, case conceptualisation and intervention to support clients achieve strengths-based wellbeing goals through strategies, support, advocacy, suicide prevention, safety planning and referral pathways for the communities Meridian serves.

The Psychologist works with clients experiencing complex and intersecting needs, including moderate to severe mental health presentations. Intersectional experiences for clients include living with HIV; exploration and affirmation of gender identity and expression; sexuality; and general emotional wellbeing. The role also supports clients impacted by minority stress, disability, neurodivergence, substance use, ageing, and experiences of domestic and family violence.

POSITION RESPONSIBILITIES

- Provide person-centred, inclusive, gender-affirming mental health care, grounded in a strengths-based and trauma-informed framework, delivering evidence-based therapeutic assessment, strategies and interventions, to support meaningful outcomes for clients.
- Deliver mental health care to clients with diverse, complex, and intersecting needs. Including the competency to respond to elevated or acute suicidality and complex trauma.
- Apply an intersectional and trauma-informed lens to understand presentations, inform clinical decision-making, and support coordinated and holistic care.
- Managing a caseload of clients including conducting comprehensive assessments, case conceptualisation, development of structured treatment plans, referral protocols and safety planning.
- Active commitment to maintaining AHPRA registration and practising within professional scope, ethical standards, organisational policies and appropriate professional boundaries.
- Maintain consistent and accurate clinical records using Meridian systems, in accordance with relevant procedures and legislation.
- Demonstrated commitment to ongoing professional development including actively identifying gaps in current knowledge and skills relevant to community needs
- Actively participate in additional external and group supervision where relevant to support client, clinician and organisational safety.

- Comply with organisational systems, policies, and procedures relating to risk management and ethical practice, including privacy, confidentiality and incident reporting requirements.
- Work closely with the Wellbeing Team Leader and colleagues to support coordinated and holistic care.
- Develop and maintain effective and professional relationships with internal and external stakeholders.
- Engage with a range of mental wellbeing promotion and community development activities to support the health and welfare of the communities Meridian serves
- Actively contribute to a positive, respectful and inclusive workplace culture that promotes collaboration, wellbeing and high-quality service delivery.
- Other duties as directed, commensurate existing skills, knowledge, and experience.
