Position Summary

Supported by philanthropic funding, the Stephanie Alexander Kitchen Garden Foundation (SAKGF) partners with the Victorian Aboriginal & Community Controlled Health Organisation (VACCHO) to support Aboriginal Community Controlled Organisations (ACCOs). This role supports their self-determined priorities for establishing kitchen gardens and culturally appropriate food education for children and young people.

Reporting to the Community Initiatives Manager in Narm (Melbourne) on the unceded lands of the Taungurung, Wurundjeri Woi Wurrung, Wadawurrung and Bunurong peoples, the Project Lead works under general direction. The Project Lead walks alongside ACCOs, and is responsible for the day-to-day project coordination, community engagement and expense tracking of the project. Intra-state travel is required to provide on-the-ground support primarily across Greater Melbourne.

Key Responsibilities and Goals

1. Culturally Safe & Inclusive Project Delivery

- Self-determined outcomes: Keep self-determined outcomes for Aboriginal communities at the absolute core of all project operations.
- On-the-ground support: Provide dedicated, hands-on advice and practical support directly to community members within identified ACCOs.
- Culturally appropriate: Implement a culturally responsive approach to support ACCOs to build community gardens and deliver food education initiatives for youth.
- Strengths-based methodology: Execute the project using a strengths-based model focused on connection and knowledge sharing.
- Resource development: Culturally appropriate resources and/or recipes are developed in close collaboration with VACCHO.

2. Community & Stakeholder Engagement

- Relationship building: Develop authentic, meaningful, and sustainable relationships with key stakeholders and community leaders.
- Sector collaboration: Connect and work collaboratively alongside relevant local community organisations identified in partnership with VACCHO.
- Community activations: VACCHO and ACCOs are supported with events as required to engage and inspire community members, leaders, children, and young people with pleasurable food education

3. Project Delivery & Administration

- Operational execution: Deliver day-to-day project activities smoothly within defined guidelines and project parameters.

- Task prioritisation: Manage daily schedules and show a proactive attitude to meet established project timelines with general oversight.
- Budget monitoring: Track local project expenditure precisely against a pre-allocated budget and submit receipts accurately.
- Resource management: Ensure considered and efficient use of available project supplies and resources.
- Future planning: Contribute valuable local feedback to help scope future community initiatives.

4. Evaluation, Reporting & Participation

- Data collection: Gather required monitoring data and evaluation metrics in accordance with project requirements.
- Evaluation: Project is monitored and evaluated to ensure on-the-go learning is applied, to inform ongoing improvement to delivery and scaling.
- Drafting reports: Assist in drafting timely, professional, and high-quality progress updates for management and funders.
- Record keeping: Maintain highly organised project documentation, knowledge management, and data security.
- Team collaboration: Participate constructively and enthusiastically in cross-organisational meetings, events, and tasks.

Key Selection Criteria

- Culturally informed: Expertise in culturally informed ways of working with experience in supporting self-determined project outcomes.
- Stakeholder Management: Proven ability to create and sustain positive relationships with a diverse range of stakeholders, including Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities.
- Relevant Experience: Practical experience in kitchen gardens, health promotion, food education, or community-led initiatives with an equity focus.
- Kitchen Garden Skills: Core kitchen or garden knowledge enabling confident, hands-on support for community leaders on the ground.
- Project Coordination: Strong organisational skills to manage multiple project tasks simultaneously under general direction while accurately tracking expenses.
- Technical Aptitude: Proficiency in Microsoft 365 and experience utilising CRM systems (such as Salesforce) to manage data.

There will likely be significant focus walking alongside ACCOs based in Greater Melbourne on lands of the Taungurung, Wurundjeri, Wadawurrung, Bunurong peoples. The Project Lead must be willing to travel to provide in-place relationship building and project support with ACCOs, communities and local stakeholders. A hybrid option to work flexibly with some days from home may be considered for the right candidate.
